Glossary

A

Acculturation- the process of taking on another group's culture.

Activism- informed action or involvement as a means of achieving a political goal.

Activism can manifest in the form of protests, demonstrations and direct actions, art and cultural production, lobbying and advocacy work, fundraising, writing, educational discussions, etc.

Agency- the capacity of an individual to act freely and make independent choices in any given environment.

Accompliceship- the process of building relationships grounded in trust and accountability with marginalized people and groups. Being an accomplice involves attacking colonial structures and ideas by using one's privilege and giving up power and position in solidarity with those on the social, political, religious, and economic margins of society. This is in contrast to the contested notion of allyship which is often performative, superficial, and disconnected from the anticolonial struggle.

American Indian- a member of any of the indigenous peoples of the western hemisphere, except those distinguished as Eskimos or Inuits.

Androcentric- the privileging and emphasis of male or masculine interests, narratives, traits, or point of view, often in spaces where power is wielded.

Anthropocentrism- the belief that human beings are the most important entity or species in the universe or human-centeredness.

Asian and/or Pacific Islander (API)- An identity marker often used in the United States to describe people of Asian and Pacific Islander descent.

Assimilation- the process whereby a historically marginalized person or group voluntarily or involuntarily adopts the social, psychological, cultural, and political characteristics of a dominant group.

B

Boycott, Divestment and Sanctions (BDS)- is a global social movement that currently aims to establish freedom for Palestinians living under apartheid conditions. Inspired by tactics employed during the South African anti-apartheid movement, the Palestinian-led movement calls for the boycott, divestment, and sanctioning of the Israeli government until it complies with International law. BDS proponents and organizers have called for the global community to boycott or withdraw support from Israel and companies associated with it. The second component of BDS calls for governments, banks, universities, and other institutions to withdraw monetary support (divestment) from Israel and its companies. And finally, the third component—sanctions—asks international governments to hold Israel accountable for its actions through legislation, trade and military agreements, among other measures.

C

Capitalism- an economic and political system in which industry and trade are based on a “free market” and largely controlled by private companies instead of the government. Within Ethnic Studies, scholars are often very critical of the system of capitalism as research has shown that Native people and people of color are disproportionately exploited within the system. In a capitalist economy, surplus value (profit) is generated from human labor and everything is commodified.

Character- A combination of qualities (i.e. mental, moral, ethical, etc.) that render a person distinctly unique.

Chicana/o/x- A contested social and political identity chosen by people living in the United States with Mexican and indigenous ancestry. The term with the ‘x’ is pronounced with an ‘-ex’ sound at the end of the word.

53 Cisgender- a person whose chosen gender identity corresponds with their sex assigned 54 at birth.

55 Cisheteropatriarchy- a system of power that is based on the dominance of 56 cisheterosexual men.

57 Citizenship- a status granted to a person that has been recognized by a particular 58 country as being afforded all the benefits, rights, freedoms, and access as a member or 59 citizen of the country. Citizenship is also the relationship a person maintains with the 60 country or state they are loyal to. Thus, citizenship also includes how citizens engage 61 their communities through both political and non-political processes for the betterment
62 of their community, state, and nation.

63 Class- a category and identifier that denotes a person or group's economic or social 64 status.

65 Classism- is the systematic oppression of subordinated class groups to advantage and 66 strengthen the dominant class groups.

67 Colonialism- a practice of domination whereby one country seizes control over another 68 country or territory and its people via force, exploitation, and/or political control.

69 Community- a social group of any size whose members either reside in a specific 70 locality, share government, and/or have a common cultural background, struggles, 71 views, or history.

72 Community Responsive Pedagogy- the practice of teaching with the objective to meet
73 the needs of a community. It is an approach of teaching to recuperate the education and 74 learning of often marginalized diverse students in order to improve themselves, their 75 families and their respective communities.

76 Counter narrative- refers to the narratives that arise from the vantage point of those who 77 have been historically marginalized. The idea of "counter" implies a space of resistance 78 against the status quo.

79 Consciousness raising/Conscientization- the enhancement of one's knowledge, 80 awareness, and concern around a particular social and/or political issue in order to 81 advance social change.

82 Critical race theory (CRT)- while manifesting differently, CRT is often engaged to offer a 83 critical analysis of race and racism within a particular discipline, field, system of power, 84 culture, etc. CRT draws on a collection of critical frameworks to better understand how 85 race and racism are interwoven into the fabric of American society.

86 Culture- the characteristics, creations, and knowledge of a particular group of people,
87 place, or time. These characteristics include, but are not limited to, beliefs, customs, art,
88 music, language, traditions, and religion.

89 Cultural appropriation- the adoption of elements of a culture (i.e. clothing, jewelry,
90 language/slang, iconography, textiles, sacred traditions, etc.) other than your own (often 91 historically marginalized groups), without knowledge or respect for the original culture.

92 Culturally responsive/relevant teaching- a student-centered pedagogy that is grounded
93 in cultural competence. This method of teaching stresses the importance of educators
94 being culturally sensitive and actively working to include parts of their students' unique
95 cultures and backgrounds into all aspects of teaching and learning.

96 Cultural retention- the act of preserving or retaining the culture of a specific group of 97 people, in particular the cultures of those that have been historically marginalized, or 98 cultures that are feared of being lost or erased for a multitude of reasons.

99 Cultural revitalization- is a process through which unique cultures regain a sense of 100 identity through promoting heritage, languages or reviving traditions and customs.

101 Cultural wealth- critical education scholar Tara Yosso introduced the term "cultural 102 wealth" in 2005 in her work, "Whose Culture has Capital? A Critical Race Theory
103 Discussion of Community Cultural Wealth." The term speaks to a broader framework
104 that encompasses various forms of cultural capital—aspirational, linguistic, familial,
105 social, navigational, and resistance— that are used to empower people. More

106 specifically, the framework is used to better understand and describe what knowledge, 107 experiences, adversities, strengths, etc. students of color bring with them to educational 108 settings.

109 D

110 Decolonization- the process of undoing colonialism. In the very literal sense, 111 decolonization it is the act of formerly colonized countries working to establish their own 112 independence. However, decolonization or decolonize is frequently used to describe the 113 un-learning of hegemonic and oppressive systems, practices, and ways of being in the 114 quest for self-determination.

115 Dehumanization- when a person or group of people are deprived of human qualities.
116 This process is often carried out when a dominant group abuses power and denies 117 opportunities and rights from another group.

118 Democracy- a form of government in which the people maintain political power and 119 have the ability to express their politics and views, and vote freely in an electoral 120 process.

121 Diaspora- is the voluntary or forcible dispersal/movement of peoples from their 122 homelands into new regions.

123 Double Consciousness- This term was first coined by W. E. B. Du Bois in The Souls of 124 Black Folk to describe how an individual's identity might be divided into several facets or 125 levels of consciousness. As a theoretical framework, double consciousness reveals the 126 psycho-social divisions in American society, it describes the feeling of having a double
127 identity or "twoness". Thus, individual's see themselves through their own eyes and lens
128 and also through the eyes of others and society more broadly.

129 E

130 Empathy- the ability to understand another person's thoughts, experiences, and feelings 131 from their point of view.

132 Empire- A group of nations, states or territories, or a major political unit that is controlled
133 by a single government, leader, or military dominion. Within the field of Ethnic Studies, 134 scholars often study the implications of Western empires and expansion on people of 135 color globally.

136 Enculturation- the process of learning one's own group's culture.

137 Environmental racism- is a type of discrimination where people of low-income or 138 minority communities are forced to live in close proximity of environmentally hazardous 139 or degraded environments, such as toxic waste, pollution, and urban decay.

140 Ethnicity- an identity marker based on ancestry, including nationality, lands/territory,
141 regional culture, language, history, tradition, etc., that comprise a social group.

142 Eurocentric/Eurocentrism- a worldview that privileges and centers the thoughts, 143 practices, knowledge, history, systems of beliefs, and customs of the western world and 144 people of western European descent more specifically.

145 Equality- is a state of affairs in which all people within a specific society or isolated 146 group have the same status in certain respects, including civil rights, freedom of 147 speech, property rights, and equal access to social goods and services.

148 Equity- unlike equality where everyone is treated the same, equity is providing students,
149 and people in general, with what they need to thrive. Equity is the promotion of fairness
150 and takes into consideration different backgrounds, learning styles, and material
151 realities to account for what each individual student needs to succeed.

152 F

153 Federal recognition- a status granted to Native American tribes that have gone through 154 the process of being recognized by the U.S. federal government and have been 155 granted sovereignty. There are over 300 federally recognized tribes across the U.S.

156 Filipina/o/x- an identity marker for people who identify as having ancestry in the 157 Philippines. Instead of using Filipina or Filipino, the “x” renders the term gender neutral.
158 The term with the ‘x’ is pronounced with an ‘-ex’ sound at the end of the word.

159 First Peoples- any of the indigenous peoples or Indian/Native communities of Canada.

160 G

161 Gender- western culture has come to view gender as a binary concept, with two rigidly
162 fixed options— men and women. Instead of the static binary model produced through a 163 solely physical understanding of gender, a far richer tapestry of biology, gender 164 expression, and gender identity intersect resulting in a multidimensional array of 165 possibilities. Thus, gender can also be recognized as a spectrum that is inclusive of 166 various gender identities.

167 Genocide- the intentional systematic destruction of an entire national, ethnic, racial or 168 religious community. Moreover, the United Nations offers a much more expansive
169 definition of this term that encompasses the various ways in which genocide manifests.¹

170 H

171 Hate crime- according to the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), a hate crime is 172 defined as “a criminal offense against a person or property motivated in whole or in part 173 by an offender’s bias against a race, religion, disability, sexual orientation, ethnicity,
174 gender, or gender identity.”

175 Hate incident- while similar to hate crimes, hate incidents are acts of bias against race, 176 religion, disability, sexual orientation, ethnicity, gender, or gender identity, however, they 177 do not meet the legal definition of a crime.

¹ The United Nations defines genocide as, “any of the following acts committed with the intent to destroy, in whole or in part, a national, ethnical, racial or religious group, such as: killing members of the group; causing serious bodily or mental harm to members of the group; deliberately inflicting on the group conditions of life calculated to bring about its physical destruction in whole or in part; imposing measures intended to prevent births within the group; [and] forcibly transferring children of the group to another group.”

178 Hegemony- the dominance or influence of one group over another, often supported by 179 legitimating norms and ideas. Hegemony describes the dominant position of a particular 180 set of ideas and their tendency to become commonsensical and intuitive, thereby 181 inhibiting the dissemination or even the articulation of alternative ideas.

182 Herstory- is a term used to describe history written from a feminist or women's 183 perspective. Herstory is also deployed when referring to counter narratives within 184 history. The prefix "her" instead of "his" is used to disrupt the often androcentric nature 185 of history.

186 Heteropatriarchy- a system of society in which men and heterosexuals (especially 187 heterosexual men) are privileged, dominant, and hold power.

188 History- the study of the past, including, but not limited to: events, people, cultures, art,
189 languages, foreign affairs, and laws.

190 Homophobia- discrimination, dislike, prejudice, hatred, and a range of other negative
191 feelings and/or actions expressed towards people that identify or are perceived as gay, 192 lesbian, bisexual, or queer.

193 Humanization- the recognition of the dignity, rights, and overall human qualities of a 194 person. Humanization occurs when power is used to offer opportunity to people that 195 have been marginalized.

196 Human Rights- are the inalienable and basic rights that belong to all human beings from 197 birth until death, these include: freedom, democracy, liberty, education, water, shelter, 198 etc.

199 Hxstory- pronounced the same as "herstory," hxstory is used to describe history
200 written from a more gender inclusive perspective. The "x" is used to disrupt the often 201 rigid gender binarist approach to telling history.

202 Hybridities- a term used to describe the crossing, intersection, and mixing of two or 203 more distinct cultures, often to form new identities.

204 I

205 Identity- the qualities, expressions, beliefs, physical traits, cultures, and social statuses
206 that comprise a person and/or group of people.

207 Ideology- A set/system of social, political, economic, and/or psychological beliefs,
208 values, and ideals that characterize a particular culture, school of thought, organization,
209 or people.

210 Imperialism- the extension of one nation's dominance, power, or rule over another via 211 policy, ideology, influence (social, economic, religious, etc.), or military.

212 Indian- relating to or denoting indigenous peoples of North, Central, and South America,
213 especially those of North America. Historically the term has been used as a slur or 214 pejorative, however, there are some indigenous people that have reclaimed the term.
215 For example, the use of "California Indian" has become more common to describe 216 Native Americans in the state.

217 Inequality- is the existence of unequal opportunities and rewards for different social 218 positions or statuses within a group or society.

219 Inequity- lack of equity; unfairness; favoritism or bias.

220 Indigeneity- while "indigenous" has been used to describe people who are native to a
221 specific land or locale, indigeneity builds upon that definition. Indigeneity is a framework 222 and practice of seeing and understanding the world through an indigenous lens.

223 Indigenous- refers to the native and original people of a particular land or territory.

224 Intradisciplinary- working within a single discipline.

225 Interdisciplinary- research conducted by educators and scholars that involves the 226 intersection and integration of two or more disciplines with the goal of pushing 227 knowledge production and theorizing beyond their disciplinary bounds.

228 Internalize- the process of absorbing or incorporating often external beliefs, values,
229 attitudes, and/or behaviors into one's nature and consciousness.

230 Intersectionality- an analytic framework that is used to describe how the interlocking of 231 systems of power disproportionately impacts those with multiple marginalized identities.

232 Institutional racism- the systemic normalization or legalization of racism and 233 discrimination. This often emerges via the unequal and inequitable distribution of 234 resources, power, and opportunity. Institutional racism is also referred to as systemic 235 and/or structural racism.

236 Institutions- an organization, establishment, foundation, society, or the like, devoted to 237 the promotion of a particular cause or program, especially one of a public, educational, 238 or charitable character.

239 Islamophobia- hatred, discrimination, fear, and prejudice against Muslims and the 240 overall religion of Islam.

241 L

242 Latina/o/x- terms used to identify men (Latino) and women (Latina) with ancestry in 243 Latin America—Spanish speaking countries in the Caribbean and Americas. Latinx 244 differs from Latina/o as the “x” renders the term gender-neutral and more inclusive.
245 Thus, the term can be used by women, men, gender non-binary and trans identifying 246 people. The term with the ‘x’ is pronounced with an ‘-ex’ sound at the end of the word.

247 LGBTQIA- lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer, intersex, and asexual.

248 Liberation- the state of freedom. Within the context of Ethnic Studies, liberation is often 249 used to describe social movements (i.e. Black Power, BDS, and others) whose aim is to 250 achieve freedom through equal rights and justice.

251 M

252 Master narrative- is generally described as the colonially-derived story of events
253 emphasizing monolithic, Eurocentric, and androcentric perspectives.

254 Matriarchy- a government or social system in which women hold primary power, 255 authority, and social privilege.

256 Mestiza/o- a term used to identify someone of mixed race ancestry, often European and 257 Native American or Latin American.

258 Microaggression- a small or subtle comment or action that consciously or unconsciously 259 expresses a prejudiced attitude, bias, derogatory, or hostile attitude towards a member 260 of a historically marginalized group.

261 Migration- movement of people, voluntarily or involuntarily, from one region to another.

262 Multidisciplinary- research conducted by educators and scholars from different 263 disciplines that are working collaboratively and drawing on each other's disciplinary 264 expertise for a particular project.

265 N

266 Native American- a member of any of the indigenous peoples of North, Central, and 267 South America.

268 Naturalization- the legal process by which a person gains citizenship to a country.

269 Nepantlas- is a Náhuatl word that was adopted by Chicanx writers, scholars, and 270 feminists to describe an "in-between space." Chicana feminist, Gloria Anzaldua, was 271 among the first to advance theorizing on the term, defining it as, a precarious space
272 where transformation can occur. The term can be used to describe a variety of identity-
273 related issues, including, race, gender, language, etc. Nepantla is the recognition of 274 confusion, chaos, and messiness in one's understanding of self and the world. Nepantla 275 also provides room for self-reflection to better understand and work through this liminal 276 space.

277 Net worth by race- the disparity or inequality of wealth among races, specifically when it
278 comes to financial capital in resources, income and savings.

279 O

280 Oppression- prolonged unjust and/or cruel exercise of authority or power over another 281 person or group. Also, a sense of being weighed down in body, mind or spirit.

282 The Four "I"s of Oppression- the four "I"s of oppression are: ideological oppression (an 283 idea, concept, or theory whose qualities advocate for or can be interpreted as causing 284 harm or upholding the views of a dominant group at the expense of others), institutional 285 oppression (the belief that one group is superior than another and that the more 286 dominant group should determine when and how those on the margins are incorporated
287 into institutions within a society), interpersonal oppression (how oppression is played
288 out between individuals), and internalized oppression (the internalization of the belief 289 that one group is superior to another).

290 P

291 Patriarchy- a system of society in which men are privileged, dominant, and hold power.

292 Pedagogy- the study of how skills and knowledge are exchanged between within an 293 educational setting (i.e. classroom, workshop, training, etc.). Pedagogy is the method 294 and practice of teaching.

295 People of color- someone who is not white. People of color as a collective identity
296 emerged as a response to systemic racism and to assert resistance and solidarity
297 against white supremacy. People of color are a global majority.

298 Political- Beyond relating to the affairs of government, political also describes the 299 broader ideas, values, interests, and principles of a particular person, group, or party.

300 Power- the ability or capacity to direct, influence, or determine behavior (social, political, 301 economic, etc.) via authority and control.

302 Pow wow- a Native American intertribal gathering where indigenous people honor their 303 cultures through fellowship, dance, eating, singing, socializing, performing rituals,
304 among other activities.

305 Praxis- a cyclical process through which theory is transformed into practice and then 306 reflected upon.

307 Pre-Contact- is a term often used to describe civilizations and environments prior to 308 colonialism or contact with an outside culture and non-indigenous people.

309 Privilege- a special advantage or benefit not enjoyed by everyone. Within systems of 310 power, privilege is often inherited and is informed by one's identity.

311 R

312 Race- a social construct created by European and American pseudo-scientists which 313 sorts people by phenotype into global, social, and political hierarchies.

314 Racism- the belief in the superiority of one race over another. Racism manifests when 315 power is used to deny access, rights, and/or opportunities to a particular group or 316 person based on their racial background.

317 Redlining- a discriminatory practice by which banks, insurance companies, lenders, etc., 318 refused or limited home loans, mortgages, and insurance policies to historically
319 marginalized groups (often Black people) to aide in the segregation of cities.

320 Resilience- the ability to recover and/or adapt in the face of extreme adversity, trauma,
321 stress, and difficulty.

322 Resistance- an act of dissent or defiance aimed at an oppressive force.

323 S

324 Self-determination- the process by which a person establishes their own agency and 325 motivation with the hope of controlling their own life.

326 Self-reflection- meditation or serious thought about one's character, actions and,
327 motives.

328 Sexuality- a person's sexual orientation or preference.

329 Sexism- discrimination based on someone's sex or gender, often women and girls.

330 Social- of or relating to the broader society, a specific community, or group.

331 Social construct- an idea or system that has been created and broadly accepted by 332 people in society; an idea or system that is not naturally occurring or inherent.

333 Social justice- The equitable distribution of resources (rights, money, food, housing, 334 education, etc.) to every individual regardless of ethnicity, class, gender, sexual 335 orientation, religion, language, or nationality.

336 Solidarity- unity or agreement of feeling or action, especially among individuals with a 337 common interest; mutual support within a group.

338 Speakers' triangle- a method used in public speaking to engage an audience. The 339 speakers' triangle often requires speakers to be mindful of their movements (walking 340 and gestures) as they develop their speeches. For example, if giving a persuasive 341 speech with a three-prong argument, the speaker might start in one position for their 342 first argument, move to another end of the room for the second, and shift to another 343 position for the third, creating a triangle.

344 Stereotype threat- according to psychologists Claude Steele and Joshua Aronson,
345 stereotype threat is, "being at risk of confirming, as self-characteristic, a negative
346 stereotype about one's group." Within the context of their research, Steele and Aronson 347 studied Black and White students' performance on academic tests. They concluded that 348 because Black students are often stereotyped as inherently "less competent" or lacking
349 intellectual capacity, they would at times feel a desire to disengage from the learning 350 process and perform those negative stereotypes, thus, impacting their performance on 351 academic and standardized tests.

352 T

353 Transdisciplinary- research conducted by educators and scholars from different
354 disciplines working together to create and innovate something entirely new that moves 355 beyond existing disciplinary boundaries.

356 Transphobia- discrimination, dislike, prejudice, hatred, and a range of other negative 357 feelings and/or actions expressed towards people that identify or are perceived as 358 transgender.

359 Tribal sovereignty- the innate authority of indigenous tribes to maintain power and 360 govern themselves within the United States, as recognized by the U.S. federal 361 government.

362 V

363 Violence- the manifestation of extreme aggression in the form of damaging physical 364 force, hostile actions, or use of one's power to inflict emotional and psychological harm.

365 W

366 Whiteness- a social construct that has served as the foundation for racialization in the 367 United States. Whiteness is the antithesis of Blackness, and is commonly associated 368 with those that identify as white. However, Whiteness is much more than a racial 369 identity marker, it separates those that are privileged from those that are not. Whiteness 370 can manifest as a social, economic, political, and cultural behavior and power. For 371 example, the "standard" or cultural "norm" are often always based on whiteness and by 372 extension white culture, norms, and values.

373 White supremacy- the belief that white people are inherently superior and represent the 374 dominant race. It is an operationalized form of racism that manifests globally, 375 institutionally, and through systems of power.

376 Womanism- a term that was coined by Alice Walker in response to mainstream
377 feminism's focus on White women. Womanism emerged as a distinct space to advocate
378 and fight for issues concerning Black women.

379 X

380 Xdisciplinary- The term signifying that Ethnic Studies variously takes the forms of being 381 interdisciplinary, multidisciplinary, transdisciplinary, undisciplinary, and intradisciplinary,
382 in diverse academic and everyday contexts. The holistic, humanistic, loving and critical 383 praxis approach for teaching Ethnic studies.

384 Xenophobia- prejudice and hatred, drawn from irrational fear, against people from a 385 different country.
